

NEBOSH | NGC1 (Management of Health & Safety)

Course Introduction

The NEBOSH National General Certificate Part 1 (NGC1) is a common units to the NEBOSH National General Certificate in Occupational Health & Safety, National Certificate in Construction Health & Safety and the National Certificate in Fire Safety & Risk Management.

This Module can also be completed individually to convert a full NEBOSH International Certificate into a full National Certificate.

The Module can be completed individually, either as a resit or to gain a full NEBOSH Certificate if the specific of the above qualifications have been completed in advance.

Course Pre-Requisites

Students wishing to sit this course to allow them to convert an International NEBOSH Certificate to a National must have successfully completed the International Certificate within 5 years. For further information on prerequisites please contact Marc@AlphaSafety.co.uk

Course Topics

- Foundations in Health & Safety
- Plan, Do, Check, Act
- Health & Safety Legislation

Course Benefits

Completing the NGC1 module, if you have already gained specific NEBOSH modules is a great way to gain a fully recognised and complete qualification.

Likewise, if you have been working abroad and completed the International General Certificate, this module can be used to convert your qualification to a National Certificate, making it more appropriate for Health & Safety roles in the UK.

If you have previously sat a NEBOSH course you will be aware that this is a notoriously difficult module with a huge amount of knowledge to absorb prior to the exam. With this in mind, this 5-day programme is a great way to refresh your understanding of the content in order to successfully gain the qualification.
